WORKSHOP SERIES

Making Decisions as a Catholic: Forming Consciences

May 12, 2021

9 a.m. - 3 p.m. CT, on campus

Presenter: Dr. Kevin Schemenauer

How do we make decisions that reflects Catholic values and principles? What resources can guide us? This interactive workshop will introduce participants to the Catholic moral tradition by presenting moral life as a response to the invitation of God's love, by examining human action, and by exploring the theological foundations of Catholic social, sexual, and medical ethics.

Register at <https://www.saintmeinrad.edu/continuing-formation/pastoral-formation-workshop/>

Registration fee: $100 (includes lunch and refreshments)

Dr. Schemenauer teaches the Catholic Social Ethics and Fundamental Moral Theology courses at Saint Meinrad. His current research focuses on two book projects. The first project looks at the relationships between social ethics and family ethics through the lens of the family as the basic social unit. The second project is a study guide for Dietrich von Hildebrand's Transformation in Christ. In addition to his teaching and research, Dr. Schemenauer has given a number of parish talks related to Catholic social ethics, family ethics, and medical ethics. He and his wife Frances have four children.
